

Graduate Pathways to STEM Symposium

Aisulu Aitbekova

ComSciCon Flagship 2021 ePoster

August 4, 2021

About the Symposium

- Informs students from underrepresented backgrounds about graduate school
- Targets the Bay Area; Northern and Southern California universities

Photo by Stanford University (<https://engineering.stanford.edu/students-academics/equity-and-inclusion-initiatives/prospective-graduate-programs/graduate-pathways>)

GPS in Numbers

2015 300 2

- Founded in 2015
- Attracts more than 300 students each year
- Run by students at Stanford University and UC Berkeley

GPS Program

- Talks by faculty
- Workshops
 - ☐ Networking
 - ☐ Advanced degree
 - ☐ Grad school application
- Panel discussions with faculty and grad students

The Reason I Love GPS

Students get connected with graduate mentors who provide help and support with graduate school application process!

- Long-term mentor-mentee connections
- Mentors as knowledge sources to those whose families cannot provide help with the application process

Learn more about GPS here:

<https://engineering.stanford.edu/students-academics/equity-and-inclusion-initiatives/prospective-graduate-programs/graduate-0>